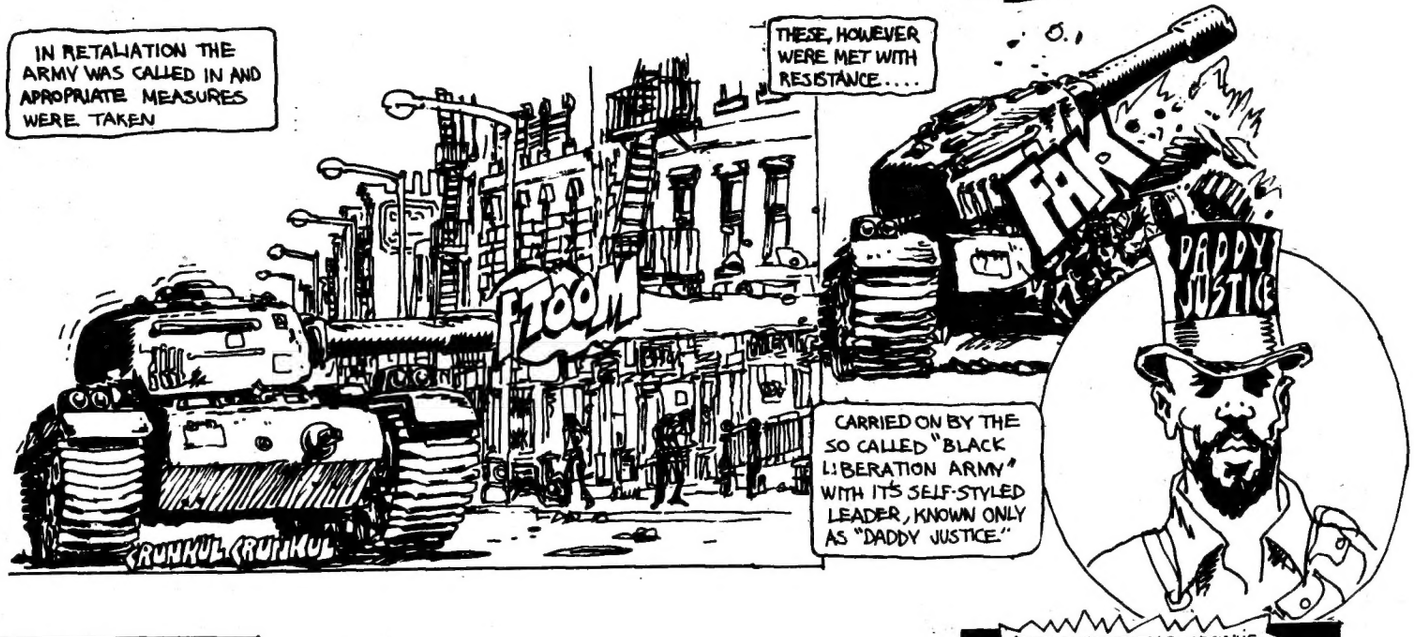
AFTER NEARLY A DECADE OF NEGRO CRIME AND INSURRECTION THE AMERICAN PUBLIC COULD TOLERATE NO MORE. IN 1972 CONGRESS PASSED THE NEGRO CONTROL ACT WHICH RESTRICTED NEGROES TO CERTAIN AREAS AND PROVIDED FOR THEM TO CARRY PASS CARDS
PASS CARD
360-4 8E

THE AMERICAN LEGION WAS ARMED TO TAKE CARE OF ANY EMERGENCIES

BAM BAM BAM
ON MAY 4, 1973 A NEGRO WAS SHOT WHILE IN THE ACT OF JAYWALKING

THE NEXT DAY EVERY POLICE OFFICER IN HARLEM WAS FOUND HANGING FROM A LAMPOST
DUM DA DUM DUM
THE EMPTY STREETS ECHOED THE OMINOUS SOUND OF DRUMS



IN RETALIATION THE ARMY WAS CALLED IN AND APROPRIATE MEASURES WERE TAKEN

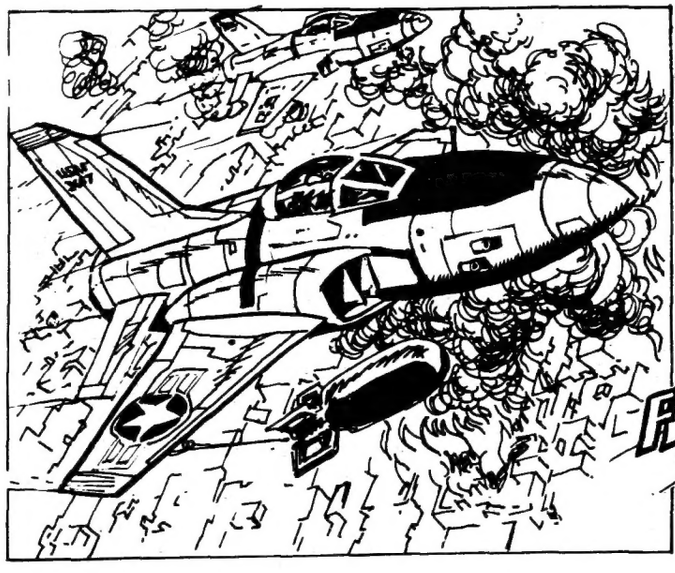
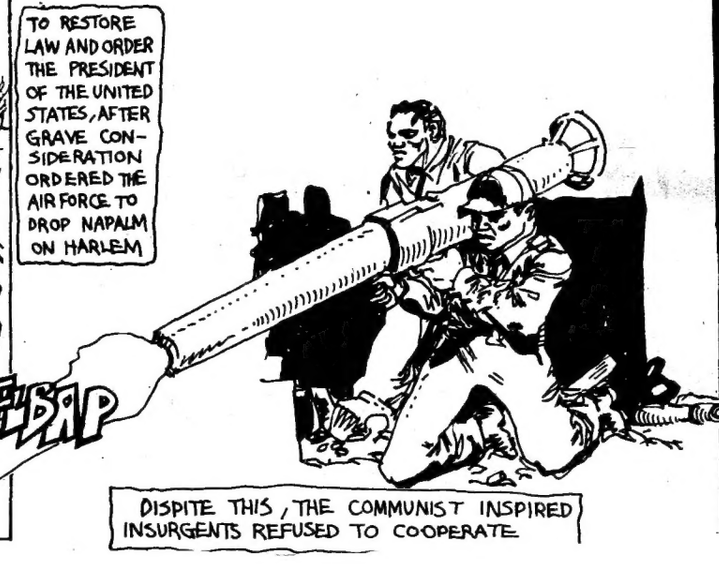
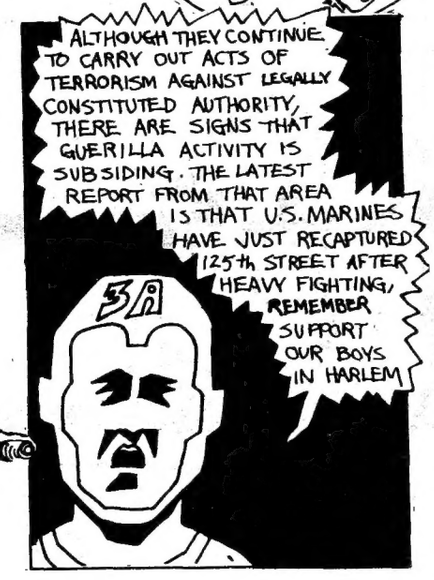
CARRIED ON BY THE SO CALLED "BLACK LIBERATION ARMY" WITH ITS SELF-STYLED LEADER, KNOWN ONLY AS "DADDY JUSTICE."





TO RESTORE LAW AND ORDER THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, AFTER GRAVE CONSIDERATION ORDERED THE AIR FORCE TO DROP NAPALM ON HARLEM
FUSAP
DISPITE THIS, THE COMMUNIST INSPIRED INSURGENTS REFUSED TO COOPERATE



ALTHOUGH THEY CONTINUE TO CARRY OUT ACTS OF TERRORISM AGAINST LEGALLY CONSTITUTED AUTHORITY, THERE ARE SIGNS THAT GUERILLA ACTIVITY IS SUBSIDING. THE LATEST REPORT FROM THAT AREA IS THAT U.S. MARINES HAVE JUST RECAPTURED 125th STREET AFTER HEAVY FIGHTING, REMEMBER SUPPORT OUR BOYS IN HARLEM

DEATH OF A PRESIDENT
TOM BELL R.V.M.C.

Bejesuschrist the cops did not crucify anyone at the Central Park Yip-Out Easter Sunday.

There was no repeat of last month's mini slaughter in the Grand Central ring which ushered in more blood and bad feeling into the yiptivities of the turned on.

It could have turned nasty at Sheep Meadow, but the cops, inspite of some unnecessary meaness on their part, did not push, did not attack, and therefore averted another senseless bloodletting.

Young & old had a good time in ageless ecstasy in the meadow where no sheep graze today. A lot of it might have been hard to distinguish from the regular establishment Easter Parade past St. Patrick's Church, but the yip-out tho restrained, was more orgiastic in a pleasant way, everybody doing his thing from Saturday night to Sunday morning all day to late Sunday night around the fires singing harmonicas sweetly about 15,000 altogether, some veterans of Grand Central still involved in bringing brutality charges against the fuzz.

There was a meagre presence of cops; but all day long people with experience said I smell them, I know they are around, but it helps not to be able to see them afraid they would charge & pick fights & have New York's energetic but tired Mayor say next day, these are my cops godamnit & this public servant stands behind them, better known as political sodomy.

At 7 or 8 or 9 (with most of the teenyboppers & weekend alienated gone) the meadow was dotted with fires, 12 counted at one time, and there were about one hundred people around one big blaze in a kind of ritual worship of flames.

How did it start? Someone (with the psychic energy penetrating everywhere) started a fire to burn trash, ostensibly; and the feeling spread, fires were everywhere, on the hill, below the hill, as soon as darkness set in, all around, people seated around the fires praying, singing, tending their flames, getting rid of trash and securing some warmth. And, about 6:30 a lone brave enterprising firetruck arrived to put out the harmless fires near the Sheep Meadow Garbage Cans Symphony Orchestra; and, naturally, the truck was surrounded everytime it stopped near a fire, the firemen didn't know what to do, and left swearing at you bitches. And the victory shout went up. Then the cops came.

Four policemen & sergeant beating out the fires with their nightsticks, laughing slowly, they leave for another and the fire is lit again; they return they leave the fire again, next time the same. Sometimes the crowd help them put the fire out but start it again as soon as they leave.

These kids, alienated from their runaway parents, were symbolically looting & burning, but it was garbage.

"BURN, BABY, BURN," was the enthusiastic chant at one time around the biggest bonfire, "BURN, BABY, URN," as the cops moved in to beat out floating paper and scatter ashes, some doing it vigorously enough to shower bystanders, all in the name of the game, because there ain't nothing like a real thing, baby.

It could have turned out nasty because the cops could have put out the fires and whipped everyone in the screeching darkness.

But (another but) it did not happen. Except the cops went around breaking bottles. Someone said they were leaving splinters in the grass, not to be believed. Then I saw a cop going about methodically breaking bottles.

"You're going to fuck people's feet up," someone screamed at him.

"Well, leave if you don't want your feet fucked up," he said.

Then I saw a sergeant and four cops breaking bottles, supposedly doing so because they didn't want anyone lobbing bottles at them. But everyone felt the cops were being coppy, mean & nasty attacking your feet when they can't your head, and it didn't make any sense risking your head to take badge numbers, because everyone was doing it: and the splinters are still there for the Fifth Avenue kids.

But the cops couldn't stop the flip-outs at the yip-out. Naturally, people were smoking in the spirit of Christianity & bullshit: all day long the incense of high: joints passed around, given away: STP on some faces.

The flip prize went to one chick who started stripping as she fled past the Taverne at six, and was naked (except for the defiant bristles on her vagina) when she hit Central Park West up & down the eyes of people with her psychic sounds, her ass tumultously weaving its way thru the fear of bystanders. Then a cop did a kind of raleigh and covered her into the lobby of one of those lowrise apartment buildings.

And at 8 (while the tribes sat around the fires or tried to protect them) five cops were tending to a young man who had been lying on the grass for hours. Nobody knew whether he had flipped out silently or just plain passed out. Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation did not help. The cops sent for an ambulance. People were thanking the cops for being so gentle. A pen was placed in his mouth to protect the tongue. He bit on it. And started snoring as the ambulance approached the fires.

To crucify is to deify.
